COAL PROBLEM
FINALLY GETS IN POLITICS

Reaches Stage Which Miners

Attain for Months

COOLIDGE IS TARGET

Both Parties Afraid Do-noth-

Washington—The coal situation is at last in the political stage that the miners have been anxious to get it in for several months, in fact ever since last August. For congress is excited about the fuel famine and Republi- cans as well as Democrats are afraid that a do-nothing policy will hurt them at the polls next autumn.

The present movement is directed against President Coolidge on the theory that executive influence can be wielded in a conciliatory way to bring about a settlement. The administration, on the other hand, took the position last summer that it must keep hands off and no one has been able to budge Mr. Coolidge on the issue.

Secretary Hoover advised the president at Swampscott last summer that he must face some criticism for his course but that in the end he would find himself less damaged by that policy than by intervention. The miners have literally let no stone unturned to force federal intervention.

The idea has been that for political reasons the administrations would be on the side of higher wages. But every indirect or direct maneuver to involve Mr. Coolidge into the coal controversy has failed.

WOULD INVOLVE COAL.
Now congress is trying to involve the president. Republicans have joined with Democrats from New York and New England in asking for action. So far as the president is concerned he would not object in the least if the house or senate took investigative steps to cure the situation.

He laid before congress the report of the coal commission, which he appointed but nothing was done about it. If congress feels that the coal industry should be supervised, Mr. Coolidge will look with favor on any bill to that effect which reaches him for signature. But as for conducting a peace-making negotiation himself, he feels that other administrations have had their fingers burnt the same way and he does not propose to shoulder the responsibility for an increase in the cost of coal to the consumer which is the usual outcome of governmental intervention.

Indeed the miners have been carrying on a campaign for several months arguing that the federal government really should have penalized some of the coal operators for violating what is known as the Jacksonville agreement. Secretary Hoover brought the two parties together at Jacksonville but the agreement which was made in no way involved the federal government either as a party to the contract, or as a mediator. The representatives of the federal government were simply unofficial observers. Yet, ever since then the leaders of the mining unions have been saying the federal government was morally responsible for the agreement and should see that it was enforced. The president and Secretary Hoover have said in reply that if a contract is violated the complainant should have recourse to the federal courts.

MEDIATION DIFFERENT
Under the circumstances, federal mediation has been made difficult. Congress on the other hand, feels the pinch of the coal famine, especially from the eastern seaboard.

Party lines have vanished and the pressure for some sort of action is growing daily. It may be that members of congress will feel they have satisfied their constituents by merely raising a fuss about the inaction of the administration. But the truth is the whole thing may develop a real political issue in the east.

ANOTHER BLIZZARD
SWOOPS DOWN OVER
ATLANTIC SEABOARD

New York —(P)—Northeastern United States, not yet dug out from under the snowbanks left by last week's blizzard, today was swept by another storm of equal fury. Train schedules were disrupted and surface and motor traffic was all but paralyzed.

Driving down on a northeast gale, the blinding wall of falling snow largely nullified the efforts of the thousands of workmen throughout the section to clear streets and highways of the previous fall, which already has cost millions of dollars.

MUSSOLINI IS FIRM IN STAND
WITH GERMANY

Tells Italian Senate He Confirms Every Letter of Former Talk

Rome—(P)—Replying in the Italian senate Wednesday to Tuesday address by foreign Minister Stresemann of Germany, Premier Mussolini said:

"I confirm the letter and spirit of my previous speech not excluding the accent upon my phrase referring to the possibility of the Italian flag going beyond the Brennero frontier, which Stresemann can interpret as he chooses."

"Stresemann in his speech merely confirmed all the points I made," the premier continued.

Mussolini asserted that Italians would interpret his phrase in regard to the Brennero Pass as meaning that Italy would never endure violations of the treaties of peace guaranteeing a frontier won by blood. He said that Dr. Stresemann had not denied a single one of the charges he had made in his speech of last Saturday and denied categorically that Italy ever would ask for a supplementary guaranty pact in regard to the Brennero frontier.

The premier declared it was impossible to compare the question of the Italian minority in Jugoslavia with that of the German minority in the upper Adige territory.

"It is hardly necessary," he added, "to repeat that our policy in upper Adige which I call Roman equity will be continued."

He concluded by declaring that the German population in the territory did not constitute a national minority, that Italy would not accept any discussion of the matter in any assembly or council (an apparent reference to the League of Nations) and that the fascist government would react with maximum energy against any plan of this nature.

Secret Session at Milwaukee Tuesday

Milwaukee—(P)—Following session of the executive committee of the Republican party of Wisconsin here Tuesday, it was announced that a state convention will be held to nominate regular candidates for state offices. A call will be issued sometime this week for a conference of regular Republican members of the legislature to meet at Madison Feb. 26 and 27.

No definite decision relative to removing the headquarters from Oshkosh to Madison or Milwaukee was reached, but it was tentatively agreed that a nominating convention be held at Madison some time in June.

The meeting, which was a secret session, lasted more than four hours, and no announcement was made of the session's business. It is understood that no action was taken on naming a new chairman to replace William J. Campbell of Oshkosh.

SENATE COURT
OPPONENTS MEET

Will Carry Tribunal Fight Against Proponents at Ballot Box

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Senators who opposed each other in the world court fight likely will come to grips again this time in the fight at the ballot box.

Opponents of American adhesion to the court, in continuing their opposition in a plea to the public, will seek to prevent reelection of those who advocated America joining the tribunal. This appears as the first development of an informal conference of the irreconcilables Tuesday night, called by Senator Borah, Republican of Idaho, who was among leaders in the fight against the adherence resolution adopted by the senate.

The conference of senators Tuesday was described as offering opportunity for a canvass of the situation and to bring out the views of individual senators as to their course of action. It was attended by all those who voted against adherence, with the exception of Senators Watson, Republican, Indiana, and Dill, Democrat, Washington.

In addition to Senator Borah and Reed, those attending were Senators Bleeker, Democrat, South Carolina; Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, Minnesota; Williams, Missouri; La Follette, Wisconsin; Brookhart, Iowa; Howell, Nebraska; Fernald, Maine; Moses, New Hampshire; Nye and Frazier, North Dakota; Schall, Minnesota; Johnson, California; Harrell, Oklahoma; Robinson, Indiana, all Republicans.

Plymouth—(P)—Quality of Wisconsin cheese is improving as a result of a campaign of the Wisconsin cheese is improving as a result of a campaign of the Wisconsin cheese producers' federation, F. G. Swoboda, general manager, declared at the federation's annual convention here Wednesday.

Of the cheese received by the federation, 42.94 per cent is fancy grade as compared with an average for the state of less than half of that percentage, he said. The improvement was attributed to the federation's quality contest in which $3,500 in prizes was distributed among factories and cheesemakers.

Describing the past year as "the biggest and best," the manager reported receipts from factories for the year aggregated 29,755,603 pounds, a gain of 6.78 per cent over 1924, and sales aggregating $6,521,920. The net undivided income for the year was $53,445, as compared with $19,820 for 1924.

The countess, wealthy widow of an English army officer, was married to Lord Cathcart in 1920 when he was about 60 and a confirmed bachelor, and she 22. Lord Cathcart brought suit a year later naming the Earl of Craven correspondent.

3 LOSE LIVES
IN SHIP WRECK

Fishing Schooner Is Driven
Aground on Massachusetts
Shore

Gloucester, Mass.—(P)—At least three members of the crew of the fishing schooner Ralph Brown lost their lives when the vessel was driven ashore on Briar Neck, in a blizzard early Wednesday.

Only six members of the crew of 21 had been accounted for at 9 o'clock. Deep snow made roads impassable and prevented aid reaching the scene of the wreck.

Three of the survivors reached shore by climbing out over the fore gaff, so close was the vessel to land when she grounded in the blinding snowstorm. The coast guard crews was standing by off shore but were unable to reach the vessel. The schooner left Boston Tuesday for the fishing grounds off Cape Cod.

The schooner was in a perilous position on an exposed shore in the teeth of a northeast gale. Mountainous seas were sweeping over her.

Telephone reports from Briar Neck, where several of the shipwrecked fishermen sought refuge, said that Captain Alvaro Quadros was safe and that a number of his 21 men were sheltered in summer cottages alo.

Fifteen men started overland through deep drifts of snow for coast guard base 7, not far from the scene of the wreck. Reports from Briar Neck said the schooner was pounding hard on the rocks and would soon go to pieces.

GRAND RAPIDS COUPLE
CHARLESTON CHAMPIONS

Chicago—(P)—Three months ago, J. F. Sullivan, 18, and his sister, Louise, 20, of Grand Rapids, Mich., had never heard of the Charleston. But today they know so much about its toe-kicking technique they are the Charleston champions of the country, better even than Charleston's own entrants in the national contest here.

So the lanky brother and the diminutive sister are taking back home two 18 inch silver loving cups, two diamond studded medals, a diamond stickpin and a diamond ring. He directs a little orchestra, a "hand orchestra" he calls it, and she, with pride, calls herself "just a home girl." But they outstepped couples from 28 cities.

Charleston's pair, Sidney Kilpatrick and Anna McCarrell, went out in the second round.

The unubbed tresses of Miss Mary Kunst of Milwaukee failed to take her beyond the first round.

ITALY OFFICIALS
LEAVE GERMANY

Report Ambassador and Counsellor of Embassy
Returning Home

London—(P)—Added interest has been given the German-Italian situation by a Rome report to the London Daily Express that the Italian ambassador and the counsellor of embassy at Berlin have left Germany.

There is no confirmation of the report but it follows quickly upon a speech delivered in the Reichstag Tuesday by Foreign Minister Stresemann in reply to the attack of Premier Mussolini on Germany last Saturday in the chamber of deputies in Rome. Mussolini alleged that Germany was carrying out anti-Italian propaganda in the upper Adige valley of Tyrol, where there is a considerable German minority among the inhabitants. These Germans, since Austria ceded the territory to Italy under the St. Germain treaty, have alleged ill-treatment of various kinds at the hands of the Italians.

Much interest was evinced here in political quarters over the utterances of Dr. Stresemann.

In view of the fact that Germany has just made application for membership in the League of Nations, there was comment on Dr. Stresemann's declaration that Premier Mussolini's threats against Germany were incompatible with the spirit of the league.

London's political circles are waiting with expectancy the reply of Premier Mussolini to the remarks of the German foreign minister.

CARRY ATTACK
ON LAKE DRAIN TO PRESIDENT

Lenroot and Bruce Head Delegation Protesting Water
Diversion

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Protesting against diversion of water from Lake Michigan by the Chicago sanitary district, a delegation representing the Great Lakes Harbors association called on President Coolidge Wednesday to urge enactment of legislation "to protect the Great Lakes as a navigation highway."

The group, accompanied by Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin, was headed by William George Bruce of Milwaukee, president of the association. Copies of a resolution adopted last month at the convention in Detroit of the Great Lakes Harbors association were left with President Coolidge, who expressed no opinion.

The delegation said Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New York, Wisconsin, the dominion of Canada and more than 80 cities on the Great Lakes were opposed to any legislation that might sanction diversion of water "likely to lower the level of the Great Lakes and thus impair the commerce thereof."

"We appeal to congress," the protest said, "to provide legislation which shall protect the Great Lakes as a navigation highway against the repetition of the blunder committed by a former secretary of war in granting a water diversion permit to the city of Chicago which has proved a great public injury."

ARMY OFFICER
FACES HANGING

Father Loses Fight to Save
Son from Death Sentence for Murder

Washington—(P)—Advised that he has lost a long fight to save his son from hanging as a murderer, the Rev. J. Milton Thompson, Presbyterian minister, has returned to his home at Far Rockaway, N. Y., without the executive clemency he had hoped to obtain from President Coolidge.

The son is second Lieut. John S. Thompson, who pleaded guilty to killing his sweetheart, Audrey Burleigh, 18-year-old Memphis girl, in the Philippines last spring.

President Coolidge has approved the death sentence imposed by the army court martial. It was to make a final appeal in his son's behalf that his father came to Washington to urge the president to set aside the court's verdict.

For a long time the elder Thompson waged a long fight to prove that his son's act was the result of hereditary insanity.

Lieutenant Thompson shot and killed Miss Burleigh when she was on a visit to her step father, an officer in the army medical corps in the Philippines. He had quarreled with her because she had played a part in an amateur theatrical, and then fired five shots at her. He surrendered to the military authorities, pleaded guilty at the trial and the death sentence followed.

PROFESSOR ROSS WOULD DROP LOAFERS FROM "U"

Madison—(P)—Professor E. A. Ross of the University of Wisconsin said in an interview Tuesday that he favored reducing the number of students by eliminating "loafers."

"If I were president of this university—and I am sure I wouldn't last in that position three months—I would eliminate the loafers if it took 1,500," he said. "I would also eliminate the 'boozers' the 'hip flask toters' and the gay, convivial fellows who think it smart to violate the laws of their country."

"When I got through there might not be more than 5,000 students here, but we might again have the atmosphere of earnestness and hard work."

TURN MACHINE GUN
ON SALOON; WOUND
TWO, ONE FATALLY

Chicago—(P)—A light machine gun in the hands of gangsters sprayed bullets into the saloon of Martin Costello on the southside, wounding two men, one probably fatally.

William Wilson, a former pupil-ist, may die. John (Mittens) Foley, ice cream wagon drivers union official, was the other victim. A bar keeper saved himself by ducking under the bar.

Struggle for control of a beer running gang motivated the attack, police said.

EXPECT VOTE ON REPEAL OF ESTATE TAX

Insurgent Republicans Score
Democrats Who Join
G. O. P. Members

Washington, D. C.—(P)—Senate Republican insurgents who joined the Democrats two years ago in tying up senate organization Wednesday took Democratic leaders to task for forming a coalition with the Republican majority on the tax bill.

Senator Norris, Republican Nebraska, first brought up the subject during the closing debate on proposed repeal of the inheritance tax. He was joined by Senator La Follette, Republican, Wisconsin, who also bitterly assailed the proposed repeal.

Criticizing the provision for a retroactive reduction in the inheritance rates, Senator Norris discussed particularly the benefits which Duke University of North Carolina would receive because of this provision. Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, ranking Democrat on the finance committee which framed the compromise bill, asked whether the Nebraska senator was intimating that he favored the amendment "merely because it will benefit the estate of the late James B. Duke?"

"No indeed," Senator Norris replied. "I am discussing the benefits to be received by several millionaire estates and if there is any suspicion it will result because my discussion of the Duke estate is protected too much. I do not charge bad faith or impugn the motives of the senator from North Carolina in the least."

Replying to Senator Norris, Senator Simmons said the Duke foundation would save about 3 or 4 million followers by virtue of the retroactive provision. Of this amount he said, Duke University would be benefited by about 10 per cent and the balance of the tax saving would go to hospitals, the sick and superannuated ministers.

The witnesses were ordered to appear in circuit court Feb. 20 for questioning. It was reported unofficially that the subpoenas were a move by the defense to hear Hesslering's story of the slaying and his reported disappearance at the time of the preliminary hearing on Jan. 26.

URGES STRICT
PROBE OF WARD
FOOD MERGER

Declares Action by Department of Justice Should Be Stronger

BOB GIVES STATEMENT

Says Court Action Won't Restrain Bakeries from Consolidating

Washington, D. C.—(P)—More comprehensive action by the department of justice than has already been taken to prevent the carrying out of plans for a huge combination of baking interests advocated in a statement Tuesday by Senator LaFollette, Republican, Wisconsin, author of a resolution asking an inquiry into the proposed mergers.

The senator said he was glad to see the department had "finally been moved into action" but added that the effect of its anti-trust suit, even if the courts grant all that is asked, would be to "leave Ward—the 'bread king'—in undisputed control of the baking industry."

Senator LaFollette issued the following statement on the government effort to prevent the baking mergers: "I am particularly glad that it is proceeding before these corporations had finally 'scrambled' into a single gigantic merger."

"Nevertheless, the orders which the department of justice is seeking, from the court, as reproduced in the newspapers, are directed entirely against the corporate defendants—namely, William B. Ward and his associates who conceived and promoted this great conspiracy. They will be left in complete control of the bread industry even if everything asked by the government is granted. This appears to be a fatal defect in the government's case which should be amended before proceeding further."

"Let me make this clear. According to the government's own statement of the case, this conspiracy has consisted in William B. Ward and his associates acquiring control of a number of the great baking corporations, particularly the 'big three'—the Ward, the Continental and the General baking corporations. They are the conspirators."

"Control of the 'big three' the government contends, will give Ward and his associates complete control over the baking industry throughout the United States. They will have this control—they will be able to dictate the price of bread, whether these three are merged into one new food trust, or are kept separate. 'The public interest therefore demands that Ward and his associates be compelled to sell their stock and give up control of at least two of the 'big three'. Any one of these three is big enough to give Mr. Ward full opportunity to develop any possible economies by large scale production. He may not be able to carry out his paternalistic project for providing for the welfare of little children out of the excess profits levied upon their bread, but he will be able to make cheap bread, if he is honest and efficient."

"But the department of justice merely asks the court to restrain the corporate defendants from merging, having control officers and directors, and so forth, and does not ask that Ward and his associates—the individual defendants who conceived and executed this unlawful conspiracy—be required to abandon the control of the 'big three' baking corporation which they now have."

"The effect of this proceeding, even if the court grants everything that the government now asks, will be to leave Ward—the 'bread king'—in undisputed control of the baking industry. He will be able to issue orders to each of the baking corporations which he is now in control of and of which the government now asks, will be to give him, as effectively as if they were merged into a single trust, I sincerely hope, the reform that the department of justice will speedily order its petition amended to cure this defect."

LAKE SUPERIOR LOWERS
.39 FOOT IN MONTH

Superior—(P)—Lake Superior is .39 foot lower than it was during December, 1925, the monthly report of the United States Lake Survey states. The lake is .69 foot lower than the January stage of a year ago, 1.59 foot lower than the average January stage of the last 10 years and 2.32 feet below the highest time in 1901. The other Great Lakes are even lower, the report shows.

Cities situated on the lake ports claim the Chicago drainage canal is mainly responsible for this lowering.

PROTEST STANDARD OIL PRICE FIXING POLICY

STATE HEARS PLEA TO STOP NEW PRACTICE

Independent Jobbers Present Case at Hearing in City Hall Here

A large number of independent oil jobbers were represented at the public hearing conducted by the state department of markets in the city hall Wednesday morning on the proposal to prohibit large quantity discount prices on gasoline when given on quantities delivered at more than one place of practice attributed to the Standard Oil company.

The Appleton hearing is one of a series others have been scheduled or held at Madison, Milwaukee and Eau Claire. Herman J. Eken, state attorney general, opened the hearing here, but other business compelled him to leave on a late morning train. M. Dunn Jr., of the attorney general's office, took up the work after Mr. Eken left. The chief attorney for the Standard Oil company was R. Hollingsham of Chicago. The hearing was presided over by Edward Nordman, state commissioner of markets.

INVOLVES BIG CONTRACTS

"The gasoline hearings," said the attorney general in opening the hearing, "deal with the question of whether former contracts to be used for giving large companies a monopoly of the business of large buyers of gasoline buying over a large territory such as over several states, as the Standard Oil company has from packers and the telephone company."

"Before July 1, 1925, the same price was made to all buyers, large or small. The new quantity discount is given only to large buyers and results in higher prices for the great mass of small and medium buyers to make up for the discount given to the larger buyers."

At a similar hearing held in Madison recently it was brought out that contract discounts were given to an association of big packing firms. Mr. Eken said but such discounts were refused to the Farm Bureau federation.

The Standard Oil company admitted that discount agreements were made with such large corporations but reasoned that these were commercial groups who were not expected to take advantage of such arrangements. The same discount was refused to the farmers' organization because it was considered more like an automobile dealers' association than a business organization. The company maintained that the system put into effect last July whereby the quantity buyer receives a discount under the regular legal wagon or service station price is legal and conforms to a general practice followed by other business concerns.

CAN'T MEET COMPETITION

Independent oil dealers of this vicinity indicated that they could not meet the competition of the Standard Oil company on the basis of the large area quantity discount agreements. Testimony at the Wednesday morning hearing also showed that the independent jobbers favored the public posting of discount prices. A state order providing that in posting the circumstances for the charging of different prices no such different prices at any place shall be conditioned in whole or in part upon sales or deliveries made at any other place is proposed. This would stop the Standard Oil Co. discount practice in Wisconsin.

Among the independent companies represented at the hearing were: Watrous Riggs Oil company, Ripon; E. H. Riggs, Thompson Oil and Supply Co., Oshkosh; H. W. Vankeuren, Wolf River Oil Co., Fremont; C. B. Abraham, DeBauer Oil Co., Appleton; H. A. DeBauer and J. F. DeBauer; Marston Brothers Co., Appleton; C. L. and J. H. Marston; Ideal Lumber and Coal Co., Appleton; R. W. Gutschow, Green Bay Oil Co., Green Bay; J. E. Shaughnessy and K. R. Baumgart; H. F. Peters, Maroon. Some of the jobbers complained that some of their filling stations showed losses and that they had lost customers because they could not grant them contracts for discounts in sales over a large territory, as the Standard Oil Co. offers. If the discounts were restricted to only one city, they felt, the practice would not be so oppressive. Since the Standard Oil Co. however has about 315 stations in the state and sells more than one-third of the gasoline used in the state, it has an advantage over the small jobbers whose trade area is limited to a few cities, it was brought out.

VINCENT HEARING IS POSTPONED 5TH TIME

Development of a new angle in the case of J. Bernie Vincent, charged with embezzling $1700 from the Midwest Commercial Accounting Co. of Milwaukee early in December, caused the fifth postponement of the much-delayed trial. The last previous postponement was granted on Jan. 27. Briefs were submitted to Judge Theodore Berg Wednesday morning.

John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, Judge Berg and Vincent's attorney are trying to determine whether the case is one of embezzlement or failure to pay a debt. Vincent contends that he did not embezzle the funds but borrowed them on his note, which he did not pay when it became due. He was taken into court in December and his trial was postponed to Dec. 17, then to Jan. 15, Jan. 27 and Feb. 10.

FEARED FIRE BUT FOUND ONLY HEAVY SMOKERS

Smoke filtering through the ceiling of the third floor of the courthouse along a newly-installed light wire, gave electricians working in the building a scare Monday afternoon. The men who were working above the third floor feared a fire and hastened down to ascertain the cause of the smoke. It was discovered the county highway committee was in session in the commissioners' office and the smoke from more than a dozen strong cigars had filtered through the ceiling along the path of the wire.

MITCHELL DISCUSSES BUSINESS FORECASTING

Business forecasting was the theme of a talk by Professor Waldo F. Mitchell of the business administration department of Lawrence college, at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary club at Hotel Northern Tuesday noon. McMahon's Broadcasting orchestra of Des Moines, Iowa, played several numbers preceding Mr. Mitchell's talk.

Mr. Mitchell predicted good business conditions until near the end of 1925 but interest rates will begin to decline in about 14 months, he said. The general trend of business has been up since the middle of 1924, he said. The stock market, stock sales, commodity prices, and financial data were named as the chief criteria of business conditions.

76 VIOLATIONS OF LABOR LAWS FOUND IN CITY

Industrial Commission Says Employers Careless in Hiring Minors

Forty-five violations of the child labor law, 61 violations of the law regulating the hours of labor for women, and ten violations of the minimum wage law were reported from 143 industrial establishments in Appleton recently inspected by Miss Alice B. Smith and Miss Sylvia M. Achtjen of the Industrial Commission of Wisconsin, according to A. J. Altmeier, secretary of the commission.

The attitude of employers was found to be friendly toward these laws intended for the protection of women and children, the inspectors said, but they were not always careful to definitely establish the age of minors before allowing them to work in excess of the number of hours permitted by law. Out of the establishments visited, 106 were found to be employing women and children.

Following are the principal provisions of the laws in regard to the employment of women and children as given by Mr. Altmeier in order that employers may avoid violations of the law:

"The Child Labor Law provides that no minor under 17 years of age may be given employment except in agriculture and in casual domestic service, until the employer has on file a child labor permit authorizing such employment. The permit officer in our city is Herbert Hellig, director of the Vocational school. Mr. Hellig is authorized to issue permits for the employment of children in any lawful employment. Another important provision of the child labor law is that minors under 16 years of age cannot be employed for more than eight hours per day or for more than 8 hours per week, or before 7 o'clock in the morning, or after 6 o'clock at night. It would also be understood that the Child Labor law applies to part time employment and to work during summer vacations, as well as to whole time employment during the school period.

NO NIGHT WORK

"The principal laws relating to the employment of women are the women's hours of labor law and the minimum wage law. Night work is entirely prohibited in manufacturing establishments and laundries that is work performed after 6 o'clock at night. In other establishments, women may be employed after a certain time or more than one evening of the week the restrictions regarding night work apply. In general, employment of women is restricted to 9 hours per day and 50 hours per week at day work and to 8 hours per day, and 48 hours per week at night work. However, in hotels, women may work 10 hours a day and 5 hours a week at day work, and 9 hours a day and 54 hours a week at night work.

"The 1925 legislature passed an amendment to the minimum wage law which provides that the old minimum wage law shall only apply to minors. A new law known as the Repressive Wage Law was passed which applies to adults. The law as it applies to adults does not fix any definite wage but provides that any rate that is less than reasonable and adequate compensation for service rendered shall be deemed an oppressive wage. The industrial commission is given the authority to determine whether a given wage is oppressive. In the next paragraph we set forth the schedule of wage rates set up under the old minimum if any criticism is likely to be aimed at any employer who pays his adult women at least these rates.

"The minimum wage law makes it necessary to pay women employees who are over 17 years of age, and boys who are between 17 and 21, of less than 16 cents per hour during the first three months of employment, not less than 20 cents during the second three months of employment. The entire period spent in an industry must be taken into consideration in determining the minimum wage law, not merely the time worked for a particular employer. Minors between 14 and 16 must be paid not less than 16 cents per hour if they are not had six months experience, and 20 cents per hour thereafter."

REVAMP SCOUTS PATROL CONTEST

Confusing Errors in Reporting
Lead to Reorganization of Prize Competition

A fresh start will be made in the inter-patrol contest of boy scout troops in the Valley council, Boy Scouts of America, according to P. O. Keicher, scout executive. Errors, or changes in personnel, or reporting of non-registered scouts, dropped and reinstated, and confusion of names makes it impossible to figure individual or patrol points and averages in the contest, the executive pointed out.

After a discussion with scoutmasters and troop committeemen, it was decided to wipe the slate clean and begin over again. In February, scoutmasters and assistants will check over their troops and patrols to make sure that all eligible boys are registered and that dropped scouts are reported so that the office records may be cleared. The scout headquarters will prepare new report blanks, and then the contest will run through 13 consecutive meetings.

Prizes of $50 in scout equipment will be awarded to the patrols scoring the largest number of points. Points will be credited on the basis of attendance of troop meetings, appearing in uniform, church attendance, regular paying of dues, passing of tests and inspection.

PAVING PLANS FOR CHERRY ST ARE RETURNED

City Council Will Meet Wednesday Night to Advise for Contractors Bids

Plans for the paving of S. Cherry-st boulevard, prepared by Robert M. Connelly, city engineer, have been returned by the state highway commission which had been examining them for the last few weeks, and now the adjourned meeting of the common council will be held on Wednesday evening as scheduled.

The board of aldermen had been waiting for the plans for some time. It was the only thing that delayed the advertising for contractors' bids. At the last meeting it was thought unwise to wait until the next regular meeting, but in anticipation of the arrival of the paving plans the aldermen adjourned to Wednesday, Feb. 10. If the plans didn't arrive the city would have adjourned the meeting again, and a meeting would have been called when the plans did arrive.

plans except that the state highway officials insisted upon provision of 18-inch shoulders. The city officers had not regarded this as important inasmuch as the street will be a two-way traffic route, with each driveway of the boulevard 15 feet wide.

This, it was felt, would give vehicles ample space in which to pass each other from the rear. Street curbs will not be constructed this year but will be left until the abutting property is improved. When the time comes to lay sewers, they will be laid under the side boulevard, thus making it unnecessary to tear up the center boulevard.

LETTER FROM MELVILLE SARTORIS TO LESLIE PRESCOTT

I had forgotten, dear lady, that today there is practically no place in which to hide one's self away from all the world.

When I wrote you that letter—that foolishly revealing letter—I was sailing toward the Panama Canal, and I expected that soon I would be on the Pacific ocean. I certainly did not expect I would be where you could—if you would—write me. If I had, I never should have written you.

Evidently you had not received it when you wired me, and that is as it should be.

I decided to stop over for a few hours in Los Angeles, when someone in the Canal Zone told me that my old friend Sergius Petroski was there. Sergius whom I had last seen at the court of the czar in St. Petersburg, an attendant upon his royal majesty.

Sergius had dropped his title since Russia's great cataclysm, and like many others he is trying to make his way in moving pictures over here in America. He has been working with more or less disappointment, until very lately, and now he has gotten a splendid opportunity with that famous young actress, Paula Perrier. When I dropped in at the harbor to buy supplies for my long trip, he seemed to think I could help him by staying over and meeting the young woman.

Without knowing what I was getting into, I became the guest of honor at perhaps the most gorgeous party I have ever attended. I confess, dear lady, that I was a little jealous of that party, as it was something more splendid and delightful than anything I have ever given myself—I, who have always prided myself upon the unique magnificence of my own entertainments.

Then you see, I am already dropping into confessing things to you that I would hardly confess to myself. I had not intended to do it in this letter; but somehow I cannot help it. When I think of you, it is not as I think of any other woman in the world. I think of you as the woman who is the other part of me—a woman to whom I can say anything, just as I could look at anything with my right eye, knowing that my left would see it in just the same way.

It is very probable that your friend Mrs. Atherton, whom I met at Miss Perrier's has told you all about Miss Perrier's dinner, so I'll not go into details. She has probably sent you the clippings, for of course, the newspapers made a great deal of the fact that I was here as a guest of honor, and that I was on my way to the Orient in search of the little god. Miss Perrier's publicity man and Serge saw to that.

When I first got into Los Angeles, Serge met me with the questions, "where I was going and what for, and I was foolish enough to tell him. He, thinking there was no secret in it, evidently told it to the reporters, and the deed was done.

The moment Miss Perrier had decided to give a party, which I think was one evening, when Serge had made me tell her about the little gods, she asked me to show her one of them. Of course, I told her that I hadn't one, but I described to her very carefully what they were and made a number of drawings. What was my surprise on the night of the dinner to find at each place one or the other of these little statues, in silver.

FARMERS URGED TO JOIN LARGE MARKETING BODY

College of Agriculture Man-Talks at Waupaca on Co-operative Benefits

Special to Post-Crescent
Waupaca.—The cooperative marketing of butter was fully explained by H. B. Bakken, state college of agriculture, to a group of farmers that filled the county board room in the courthouse on Monday afternoon. The speaker dwelt principally upon the success of the Minnesota cooperative group in the methods they have employed, not only to sell their product but to raise the standard of such. In the latter they have employed field men to coach the farmers to produce cream that could be made into a high scoring butter. Mr. Bakken quoted figures to prove Minnesota had raised the butter score from 25 per cent to more than 75 per cent scoring more than 92.

BEST YEAR FOR GRAHAM BROTHERS

Official Figures Credit Graham Brothers with Growth of 123% in 1925 Compared with Gain of 31% by Entire Industry

The recent absorption by Dodge Brothers Inc., of Graham Brothers, the largest exclusive manufacturers of motor trucks, lends special interest to the new business record achieved by Graham Brothers during 1925. Shipments by the truck industry as a whole, according to official figures recently released by the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, totaled 492,000 units; an increase of 31% over the record of 374,317 for 1924.

By comparison Graham Brothers increase in total shipments from 10,791 in 1924 to 24,056 in 1925 from their four plants, Detroit, Evansville, Stockton and Toronto, a gain of 123% seems remarkable.

A Dodge Brothers executive is quoted as follows regarding these figures:

"An annual business growth of well over 100% is what would be expected by those who are familiar with Graham Brothers rapid rise from a start less than five years ago to their present position in the truck industry."

"Graham Brothers 1925 sales exceeded their 1924 by 181%; 1923 exceeded 1922 by 105%; 1924 exceeded 1923 by 54%; and now 1925 sales have beaten those of 1924 more than 123%."

"Month by month this year sales have surpassed the preceding month. In fact production for the first six months of this year equalled the entire production for 1924."

"At no time during the year, nor at any time during Graham Brothers history, has there been any overstocking of trucks by dealers. Our problem has constantly been one of increasing manufacturing facilities to supply the demand for our product."

"The number of trucks on hand at the end of November, compared with the number at the end of the same month last year, shows a substantially smaller increase than the rate at which production has been advanced."

This is because the big volume of retail sales has cleared the stocks of the dealers so rapidly."

"To produce sufficient trucks to supply the constantly growing demand," states Mr. R. K. Walter of The Walter Motor Company local Dodge Brothers dealer, "Graham Brothers have been engaged in an almost continuous program of expanding manufacturing facilities. When they moved their Detroit plant into new quarters July 1 this year their 265,000 square feet of floor space represented an increase in space in Detroit of nineteen fold in a little over 4 years. Their plants at Evansville, Ind., which now occupy 301,000 square feet have made a similar growth during the same period."

"The new plant ponded this summer in Stockton, Cal., for manufacturing trucks required by dealers in the Pacific Coast and Rocky Mountain States has an area of 40,000 square feet and the new Canadian plant at Toronto, Ont., 20,000. This gives Graham Brothers a total floor area of nearly 15 acres."

"The excellent business record made by Graham Brothers last year and their record of having risen in five years to leadership in the industry is unquestionable evidence," Mr. Walter continued, "of public recognition of the merit of their product. Now that Graham Brothers business has been purchased outright and become an integral part of Dodge Brothers, Inc., the outlook for even greater achievement in 1926 is exceedingly bright."

ervative, and has shipped the first carload of butter from Polk-co, Wis. It seems to be a question among the leaders in this movement, as to whether this state should join with Minnesota and Iowa, or organize a separate union. To the speaker the idea for the farmers to join Minnesota and thus eliminate competition, would be the proper thing to do. The three midwest states, Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin produce 25 per cent of the butter of the country and in the following order 12, 8 and 5 per cent. Small creameries with a high scoring butter get less than the big centralizing plants owing to the fact that the latter are able to market a larger amount of fairly uniform quality, even though it may not be so good a quality.

PACKER SPEAKS

The Land O'Lakes Cooperative Markets the greatest amount of high scoring butter of any organization in the world. This includes the great amount of Danish and New Zealand butter sent to other countries. P. E. Hanson of the (Udaly) Packing company of Milwaukee, appeared to advocate the breeding of a bacon type hog and at the conclusion of his address was taking orders for Berkshire breeding stock. Not all were in accord with this speaker's views. It is doubtful if the Waupaca farmers are ready to discard the hard hog for a mere premium of three quarters of a cent a pound as is paid for the bacon hog. Packing houses have tried for years to induce the breeding of the bacon type, but the farmer has not forgotten how to fatten profits, so until the inducement is improved, the hard hog will serve for both purposes.

POACHERS SENTENCED

George Dilish and Charles Becker of Oshkosh, were sentenced to one year in the Green Bay Reformatory on Monday by Judge Byron B. Park in circuit court in an adjourned session here. Both men lived near the resort, last summer and employed their time as frog fishermen. Both entered a plea of guilty and took their sentence without comment.

The funeral services for the George David Cook who died at the Green Bay reformatory last Thursday were held at the home of his mother Mrs. Hannah Cook, Scott-st., in this city on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. Mr. Naarup of Our Saviors Lutheran church, conducted the services. Interment was in Lakeside cemetery of this city. The decedent is survived by his mother, two sisters and two brothers.

Tuberculin Test Shows Only 10 Reactors of 910 Animals Subjected

Special to Post-Crescent
Maple Creek.—Dr. B. Royer, who has charge of the tuberculosis test in this locality, is more than pleased with conditions here. He has thus far covered about one-third of Maple Creek up to Feb. 3 he tested 910 head, among which there only had been 11 reactors, but found a great many infected flocks of poultry and urges immediate attention. He advises everyone to watch carefully and when a chicken might show slight symptoms it should be killed at once. Where a greater infection is shown the entire flock should be disposed of. Dr. Royer believes it will take about 10 more days to cover this town, provided the weather and road conditions are favorable.

STAGE AND SCREEN

HEROINE OF NEW FLAN FILM SEEN IN ODD DILEMMA

If you loved a man, but thought he only wanted to marry you because he wanted your money, would you marry him? This is the situation that confronts Aileen Pringle in Jack Conway's production of "Soul Mates," the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture coming to the Elite theatre Thursday and Friday. It is an Elinor Glyn story, and was adapted to the screen by Carey Wilson. Conway has brought this famous Glyn novel to the screen with all its romance, passion and comedy, retaining the spirit of the original in every scene. His vigorous style of direction is particularly adaptable to this Glyn story. The story presents a peculiar philosophy of a man's mind. Lord Tancred, played by Edmund Lowe, is given an opportunity to have the mortgage on his ancestral estate destroyed if he will marry the niece of the mortgagee. While Tancred would not hesitate to marry this girl, never having met her, he does reconsider when he discovers that he is really in love with the girl.

which has recently invaded the mid-west after a big success on the Pacific coast, will be at the Fischer's Appleton theatre next Friday, Saturday and Sunday and will render the tantalizing tunes which recently made the orchestra such a hit in Chicago. Joe Riley is a harpist, who also plays violin and slide trombone, and his associates are young women chosen not only for musical ability but for pleasing stage appearance. The Three Weber Girls, long recognized as leading act of its kind in big time vaudeville, will present some splendid entertainment. Nada Norrington, "America's Double Voiced Songster" will sing in English and Italian and display her wonderful voice. Just now she is singing "Brown Eyes Why are you Blue?" as a popular selection. Lester Fairman and Homer Gill will offer "The Dark Hope," a skit which portrays the woes of a colored prizefighter and his manager. The feature photoplay on Saturday and Sunday will be adopted from Peter B. Kynes famous novel "The Enchanted Hill" and features Jack Holt, Florence Vidor, Noah Berry and Mary Brian.

"The Golden Strain" a new Fox Films production, based on a Peter B. Kynes story, at the New Bijou today and Thursday, is an unusually good picture. It is the story of a young Army officer who was handicapped by a "yellow streak" and how he was enabled to overcome his weakness when the supreme test came. One of the big dramatic climaxes is a thrilling battle scene in which the famous Tenth Cavalry clashes with several hundred Apache Indians on the warpath. Kenneth Harlan and Madge Bellamy have the leading roles with Hobart Bosworth, Ann Pennington and a notable cast in support. Much of the action takes place near Fort Huachuca, Arizona, where the notorious Geronimo once ran amuck. "The Golden Strain" is the seven version of one of Kynes's best stories and adds another to Victor Schertzinger's list of photoplay triumphs.

ATTORNEY LOSES APPEAL CARRIED TO HIGH COURT

Municipal Court's Dismissal of Smith's Commission
Claim Is Affirmed

Word was received here Tuesday that the Wisconsin Supreme court had affirmed the decision of municipal court here dismissing the suit of Attorney E. C. Smith vs. the Nichols Land Co. for $5,000, which Mr. Smith claimed was due him for the alleged sale of land in the village of Nichols.

Mr. Smith said that he had entered into a contract with the land company to dispose of land in Nichols for $80,000 for which he was to receive $5,000 as a commission. He claimed he found the purchaser in one J. A. Burrichter, who was ready, willing and able to purchase the property at the prices specified. The plaintiff then stated that he sold the property to Burrichter, but had not received his commission.

The defense claimed that Mr. Smith had entered into an agreement only with A. L. Nichols, president of the land company, and that the contract was void, as Mr. Nichols had not authority to make such an agreement for the company without the consent of the stockholders of the company.

Another defense set up by the land company, was that according to the terms of the contract Burrichter did not agree to do anything but find buyers for the land, and that the terms clearly showed that the title to the property was never transferred by the Nichols Land company to Burrichter. It was further stated that Burrichter never paid anything to the Nichols Land company, and that after a few weeks spent in the village of Nichols he left the territory for parts unknown.

Morgan and Johns represented the Nichols Land Co. and Ryan and Cary were attorneys for Mr. Smith.

AUTOMOBILE TRAFFIC HALTED BY DEEP SNOW

Snow of the past few days have caused some damage to the roads, making many of them almost impassable. Bus service between Appleton and Manitowish is interrupted but a car arrived from Manitowish Monday after a hard drive. North of Green Bay the roads are doubtful, and west of Stevens Point and north to Ward Iron River and Iron Mountain, the snow has drifted considerably.

Miss Agnes Rossmoell returned on Tuesday from a visit with friends in Fond du Lac.

Make Your Clothes Last Longer.

This can be accomplished by removing the spots and stains as soon as they appear.

Hot water takes out fruit stains, but if you use it on a milk or egg stain it "drives it in" and makes it worse. Soap on the other hand takes out grease spots and makes fruit stains worse.

There is a remedy for every stain—even the scorched spots on cotton and linen.

Write our Washington Bureau today for the free booklet that tells how to remove eighty-eight different kinds of stains. Enclose two cents in stamps to cover the return postage.

Adventures Of The Twins

The Hidy Go People Go Fishing

"I've got a bite. There's something on my hook," cried Lumber Long Legs as all the dolls sat around the laundry pool in Hidy Go Land.

"Pull it up. Let's see! Hurry!" cried the dolls excitedly.

So Lumber Long Legs jerked up his line, and there dangling from his hook hung a striped collar. He had it right through the button hole.

"Let me see that please," said poor Mister Havalook. "It looks exactly like the collar that belongs to my candy-striped shirt. Neither of them came home from the laundry. Indeed all my laundry was mislaid and I got someone else's by mistake."

Then the Twins remembered that the very first time they had seen the poor worried little fairyman, he had been carrying a bundle of laundry under his arm—the wrong bundle, as it turned out to be.

"Yes, sir," said Miss Pithers, who was very well educated, "it has initials on it 'P. M. H.'"

"Poor Mister Havalook! That's exactly it!" declared Belinda, excitedly. "I'm sure I'm very much obliged," said poor Mister Havalook.

"Shall I bring it out for you?" asked Nancy.

"Do, please," said the fairyman. "Yes, please do. I mean, do, please."

"I've got a bite, too!" cried Sailor Sam just then. "Something is on my hook and it's so heavy I can't lift it."

"Till help," said Nick.

"Perhaps it's a shark. Be careful," said Sailor Sam, who knew all about the sea.

"It looks more like a zebra," laughed Nick, giving the line a strong pull, and landing something striped and shapeless out on the bank.

"Jimmy Jordan!" cried poor Mister Havalook. "It's my shirt — my candy-striped shirt as sure as my mumps. Oh, my poor dear shirt. I never expected to see it again."

"No wonder you didn't get your laundry back," said Nancy. "It all went down the drain."

"It see it all now," quite clearly," said poor Mister Havalook, looking around to find out if anyone else had had a nibble.

Sure enough Teddy Bear was just pulling up a polka dot sock and Black Dinah had the other.

Poor Mister Havalook began to smile—indeed he began to grin. Really he almost laughed aloud, he was so pleased to get his clothes back. "It's almost like Christmas," he whispered to Nick.

After that the Hidy Go people found all sorts of things. Two pocket handkerchiefs and a nightgown and some other things that fairyman wear underneath.

It was all there, every stitch of it, and Black Dinah said she would iron them all out as soon as they got back.

"A lot of good that does me," said Calamity to Mrs. Jiggs. "I haven't found a thing yet and I suppose I must go for the rest of my days uncovered."

But at that minute she felt a pull on her fish hook. She was so excited as she said afterward, that she almost dropped the line and all.

What did she haul out of the laundry pool but a lovely lace mat.

"Didn't I tell you?" nodded Miss Blaggard. "That's an antimacassar. It would make a lovely wedding veil, though it is intended to put on the backs of chairs."

"Well, that's a start," said Calamity.

Wise Planning-- Certain Progress--

The thinking man should take care to supplement his present income by the income from well-chosen securities. Wise investing now means less worry and more comfort later on.

Ill-considered speculations, needless spending—both heavy drains on resources—find no place in the planning of a second income. That is why the consistent bond buyer has so much to show for his effort.

Investigate our plan for the purchase of high grade bonds. We will analyze your requirements and suggest suitable offerings.

We offer with our recommendation:

BEGIN HERE TODAY
BARBARA HAWLEY, 25, self-willed and talented, breaks with her fiancé, BRUCE REYNOLDS, and gets a job on the Appleton Telegraph, in order to see life.

One of her duties is to write the daily Lovelorn column. She and BOB JEFFRIES, police reporter, enjoy the exchange of several letters with a girl named VIOLETTA. Later Barbara reads of Bruce's marriage to a girl named VIOLETTA CRANBY and learns that she has herself engineered the girls' campaign to win Bruce.

A prominent local man kills himself in a roadhouse where Barbara is attending a dinner for newspaper men and women. In getting the story Barbara finds a red scarf left by the man's unknown woman companion.

Bruce becomes the junior member of Manners, Stone and Reynolds, realtors. LUDIA STACY, rich widow, spurned by Bruce, informs ANDREW McDERMOTT, managing editor of the Telegraph, of crookedness in Bruce's firm. Manners leaves town with the company's money. Bruce thinks Barbara is responsible for the Telegraph's accounts of the affair.

Barbara's mother dies suddenly. She leases an apartment in town and agrees to have Fanny, McDermott's daughter, come to live with her. The girl arrives in town two weeks ahead of schedule.

OW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XXXIII
The girl smiled winningly and took step nearer. Barbara recovered from her astonishment enough to meet the offered hand.

"How do you do, Miss McDermott?" she said. "I'm glad to see you."

Fanny picked up her traveling bag and almost danced into the room. "It's nice to be here, Miss Hawley," she exclaimed. "I've been asked that hole of a school so long that I'm here with you is going to be to heaven."

"I'm sorry you find the place in a mess," apologized Barbara. "I moved in today."

"Oh, that doesn't matter. I'll help you fix it up. Shall I?"

Barbara looked at the eager face of the child's eyes. "Not tonight," she smiled. "You'd better tuck right to bed." Fanny slipped through a living room and into the kitchen, where she perfectly awful of me," she said. "But I'm started. Do you suppose you have a crust of dry bread for the hungry box?"

"The bread box has not yet been touched," answered Barbara, somewhat taken aback. "But I guess we can find something in the refrigerator."

"Don't go to any bother," cried the girl, "I'll get it myself. I'm hungry as a bear."

Barbara trooped in the ice box and brought out crackers and cheese. The girl provided fruits preserved the summer before by Barbara's mother. Fanny sat on the bed in her room, and in an amazing pajama outfit of deep blue. She munched crackers and talked gaily to Barbara between sips.

"Gee, it's peachy of you to take me here. You don't know how scared was that father of mine some old fright a grandmother to look out for me. But he still has that old-fashioned notion that girls need to be looked after. Isn't it silly?" She took a delicious bite of cheese and sat kicking her heels against the chair legs. Barbara smiled. "I don't know, my dear," she said. "Perhaps they do. I am too busy to do much interesting with your life. You're to be mostly on your own, you know. I think your father understands that."

"Hoop so," answered Fanny. "If he doesn't now, he soon will."

Barbara looked at her with troubled eyes, but did not pursue the subject.

Fanny finished her lunch and went to a four of inspection of the apartment. At one-thirty she tumbled into bed and called to Barbara in the hall outside to come and put out the lights.

Work of the Telegraph office went on as though the world had not turned over for Barbara Hawley. She went herself rushing from assignment to assignment, snatching food at 10 hours, chatting with Bob and jelling with Miss Badger—altogether unable to give time to grief during office hours.

"It's a little saying but true," she said to Bob. "That work is the best for me. When I'm slaving away on the Telegraph I haven't a moment to think of my mother. It's a blessing, for thoughts of her would be hard to bear. There was never anybody like her, Bob."

"No, except my mother, and everybody else's mother, Babs. They're a unique breed, these mothers."

"It's when I put on my hat and go out from this office at night that I'm worst of it. I sweep over me," answered Barbara. "I sometimes am unconsciously toward the suburban station instead of in the direction of Lawe-st. This new place I'll never be home."

Bob took his pipe out of his mouth. It sounds like rotten sentimentality, Babs, but I wonder if home is a place at all? Isn't it a person, or persons?"

Barbara raised her eyes to his. "I suppose it is, Bob. Fanny McDermott says so in many ways, but she doesn't make that apartment home or me—though I must say she makes home for herself. I might as well have a spoiled daughter of my own to wait on as that young miss."

"You ought to have daughters of our own, Babs. You'd make a good mother," Bob was thoughtfully blowing smoke rings. Barbara looked at him, startled.

"Nonsense," she replied. "I'd make a very poor one. I'm too selfish to start. The lights were still on and the book slipped to the floor. Her body was stiff with cold. She went into her bedroom and got a large silk shawl to wrap around her shoulders.

Out in the living room, again, she consulted her watch. It was nearly one o'clock. With a start she turned toward Fanny's room. She switched on the lights, there and found it empty. Then she ran to the front window and looked out. The street was quiet. A policeman strolled past, swinging his club. There was no other figure in sight.

It seemed to Barbara that she stood by the window for many hours. Now and then a belated automobile would run the corner and come down Lawe-st. Barbara held her breath each time, expecting it to draw up in front of the apartment building. But they all passed on.

Once Barbara left the window and ran to pick up the telephone book. She ruffled through the leaves hastily and suddenly laid the book down again.

She regained her post by the window. A car was swarming in at the curb, its powerful lights flashing for a moment through the rooms in which she stood. Barbara was faintly aware that the lines of the car were familiar. But she had no time to ponder the matter. Assisted by a man, Fanny started from the automobile and alighted on the steps. Half way up the man put his arms around her and kissed her. Then he ran back down the steps and climbed into the car. Barbara pressed her face against the pane, watching him drive off.

Tripping footsteps sounded outside. Barbara turned toward the door just in time to see it open and admit Fanny. She was pale and her eyes burned. One lock of fluffy hair fell from beneath her hat across her face.

BAND DEDICATES NEXT CONCERT TO PRES. WRISTON
Director Gets 150 Requests for Favorite Numbers and One Is for Jazz

A classical concert will be given by the One Hundred Twenty First Field Artillery band in honor of Henry M. Wriston, president of Lawrence college, on Thursday, Feb. 11 at Lawrence chapel. The singing of the "Soldiers' Chorus" by the School Cantorium of 150 voices, will be one of the features of the evening, and the encore will be "Follow Me" written by Captain Fred B. Rogers, U. S. A., 322 E. Harris-st.

Carl J. Waterman will direct both the band and the School Cantorium. Edward K. Mumm, director of the band, asked at the last concert that people send him the names of numbers they would like to hear the band play at future concerts. He has received 150 responses, and only one of these was for jazz. The great demand seems to be for light opera of several years ago and for standard operatic works, according to Mr. Mumm. Within the next few weeks, the band probably will play a concert composed of light opera numbers, and later in the season a concert of standard operatic works will be given.

Concrete is the aristocrat of Pavements

Why Milwaukee Keeps on Laying Concrete Street Pavements

Year after year, Milwaukee continues to pave streets with portland cement concrete.

Last year, in city and suburbs, a total of 543,887 square yards of this firm, rigid, unyielding pavement was built.

Property owners like its pleasing light gray color. Motorists especially value its true, non-skid surface. Everyone knows that it requires almost no maintenance.

No wonder more than 1,000 cities and towns laid concrete streets in 1925.

All of the facts are in our free booklet on "Concrete Streets." Ask for your copy.

The Tomorrow of Gasoline

What does the future hold in store for gasoline in its relation to man?

Will there be new uses for it? Will there be enough to go around?

What will the price be? It is interesting to contemplate its probabilities in our rapidly changing world.

Fifty years ago, oil wells were about 70 feet deep. The cost to "bring in" oil was a few hundred dollars. Today, wells are from 3,000 to 6,000 feet deep and it costs $50,000 or more to "bring in" oil.

What will it cost in 1930?

Twenty-two per cent of all the oil wells drilled in 1920 were dry—twenty-five per cent of all the oil wells drilled in 1925 were dry.

What will be the percentage in 1930?

In the past twelve and a half years, dry wells cost approximately $700,000,000 and in the same period producing wells which failed to return enough oil to pay their cost sustained an aggregate loss of another $500,000,000.

Wherein do these losses affect the price of gasoline, you ask?

They have an intimate bearing, because they must be absorbed by the industry and be spread over the productive wells.

But they supply only part of the answer to the fluctuating price of gasoline.

There are scores of other hazards and factors over which no man or group of men have any control which must be considered.

A few years ago the nation was confronted with what appeared to be an unavoidable shortage of gasoline.

Then the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) by reason of commercially successful cracking processes, which it had developed, saved the situation.

This Company was able to double the yield of gasoline from a barrel of crude.

Without Standard Oil Company (Indiana) cracking process it is conservative to state that you would be paying a corresponding double price for gasoline today.

That was constructive service of inestimable value. But what about tomorrow? Who knows?

For the week ending January 16, 1925, the daily average production of crude oil in the United States was 76,050 barrels less than it was during the same period of 1925.

For the week ending January 23, 1925, the daily average production of crude oil in the United States was 15,230 barrels less than for the week preceding.

If these decreases continue, the age-old law of supply and demand can be expected to exert itself and the price of crude oil will advance. If history repeats itself, the price of gasoline and other petroleum products can be expected to advance, unless other factors intervene.

It is with these problems that the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) must grapple, that you may have an unfailing supply of gasoline, when and where you want it, at the most reasonable price at which it is possible to supply it.

As long as the world goes on, economic conditions will change and the price of gasoline probably will fluctuate, but if a Standard Oil Company (Indiana) with its research and business foresight has done much to stabilize and keep the price down.

Whether the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) will be as successful in inventing ways and means to combat the caprices of nature in the future is to be seen.

But when economic laws thrust themselves into the situation and cause fluctuations in gasoline prices, the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) asks the people of the Middle West to consider the myriad factors having a bearing and known only to those in daily intimate touch with the oil industry.

It asks them to appreciate that this Company is constantly exerting all its energies to supply gasoline at a price which will reflect only the cost of crude oil, manufacturing and distribution, plus a small and reasonable profit.

Standard Oil Company (Indiana) served you yesterday, is serving you today—it will do so tomorrow.

The Brunswick PANATROPE

GIORGIO POLACCO, Musical Director Chicago Civic Opera, Says—

The Panatrope has been a revelation to me. The precision and delicacy with which every tone of the artist recording has been preserved and translated into sound, is marvelous. All the tonal beauty of the original rendition is reproduced again for the hearer, without distortion whatever. I am spell-bound by this wonderful achievement of science which, through electrical principles, has at last made it possible for musicians to have their art faithfully recorded, and for music lovers to hear in their own homes their favorite artists, absolutely as perfectly as if they were in their presence.

Congratulations to Brunswick on the achievement of the Panatrope, which is a true contribution to the development of musical taste and appreciation.

7 CHANCES TO WIN WIFE, MONEY

High School Juniors Rehearse Play Full of Amusing Situations

A request of $12,000,000, for a request with a complicated string of figures is the predicament of Jimmy, the hero of "Seven Chances" to be played by the junior class of Appleton High school at Appleton theatre on March 1. Alois Liehen plays this role in an unusually effective way. He sets out to find a girl who will marry him before midnight on the following night, for this he must do in order to get the money left him by his grandfather.

The pathetic part of the situation is that Jimmy does not know a single girl in the world well enough to "hook up her back," but according to the plot of the play he has "seven chances" to win a wife and the money.

Supporting Mr. Liehen are Frank Murphy and Arthur Smith, known as Goddard and Garrison, law partners, and Mark Carlin and Dexter Chefee, young stock brokers. Robert Matz plays the part of an effeminate club "best" and Frances Rooney plays the role of latter.

The play is one of Red Cooper

Green Bay was awarded the 1927 tournament of the Wisconsin Women's Bowling association at the annual meeting at Hotel Conway Tuesday evening. Fond du Lac put in the only other bid. Offering the use of the Columbus club with its 12 alleys, the Green Bay proposal was considered with enthusiasm. It will also mean that the tourney will run off in about five days.

Mrs. Edna Smith, Green Bay, was elected president. Other officers are: Mrs. H. Sanders, Fond du Lac, vice president; Mrs. Jean Knepprath, Milwaukee, secretary; Mrs. Marie Masse, Green Bay, treasurer; Miss Ellen Dunn, Appleton, sergeant-at-arms.

Board of directors includes Mrs. J. Manhardt, Milwaukee; Mrs. A. C. Jones, Appleton; Miss Sylvia Rader, Rush, Appleton; Mrs. Edith Schwartz, Kenosha; Miss Dell Mitchell, Fond du Lac.

The association adopted an amendment to the constitution, introduced by Mrs. Knepprath, providing for the awarding of a gold medal to the woman rolling the highest score for a single game in league competition during the year. To be eligible, she must be a member of both the city and state association. The award will be made at each tourney.

KNOCHER ROLLS 581
Finishing her series with a magnificent 244 game, H. Knoche, Madison, rolled into the lead in the singles event Tuesday morning with a 581 count, displacing E. Hanson, Milwaukee, who has held the lead since Sunday with 545.

The 214 game is the highest rolled in the tourney thus far and will, if not passed during the next five days, reward the owner with a medal.

The Madison woman started her series with a good count, 178, but it was nothing unusual. She faltered in her next start, dropping to 159, and her chances of causing any great disturbance among the leaders appeared slim. Then came the final try and she came through like a veteran bowler. Strike after strike she scored with her perfect working ball, and when it was all over she had amassed the huge 214 total giving her a comfortable lead in the event.

Two other changes took place in the singles standing. L. Coster, a towns-woman of H. Knoche, pushed J. Neustadter of Milwaukee out of fifth place with 160 and 161. Her games were 170, 160 and 161.

Sixth place likewise gave way to a new occupant, E. Dean, also of Madison, rolling 190, 160 and 112 for a 462 total.

SECOND IN DOUBLES
Only one change resulted in the doubles event standing. H. Knoche and R. Bostad, Madison, going into second place with 926 on games of 229, 306 and 331. The former shot 171, 152, and 133, totaling 456, and the latter garnered 430 with counts of 128, 134 and 198.

PHI KAPPA ALPHA CAGERS LOSE TO KIMBERLY TEAM

Fraternity Squad Stages Rally in Last Half but Falls Short

Phi Kappa Alpha basketball team lost a close game to the Kimberly Clark Athletics at Kimberly Tuesday evening, 31-20. Although the fraternity team was trailing 16 to 5 at the half, a desperate rally in the final period enabled the squad to almost overtake the Athletics. Manitowoc boosters were scheduled to play at Kimberly but they became stalled in the snow on their way and were unable to fulfill their engagement.

Koll led the Kimberly five with 5 baskets while Williams caged four and one free throw. Boettcher, Cour, Chase and Cooke each got two field goals.

Bloomer set the pace for the fraternity squad, dropping in four field goals and a gift toss. Hilton was next with three baskets.

Kimberly School squad won a preliminary game from Appleton Mont-Five Social and Athletic club, 15-10.

WOLVERINE BASEBALL CANDIDATES REPORT

Ann Arbor, Mich.—Although snow still covers Perry field diamond, Michigan baseballers are hard at work in Yost Field House. Battery candidates reported to Coach Ray Fisher Monday and immediately started work. Jabonowski, Walters, Hovey and Southworth, all pitchers of a year ago; and Baker, Davis and Edgar, veteran catchers were on the job. Cherry, Molenda and Gavne, members of the basketball squad, will not report for baseball until the court season ends on March 3.

MICHIGAN HOCKEY SQUAD WILL PLAY MARQUETTE
Ann Arbor, Mich.—A home-and-home hockey series between Marquette University and Michigan has been arranged. Ted Wieman, Wolverine assistant athletic director, announced. Marquette will play here Feb. 15 and Michigan will play at Marquette March 3.

SETS MODERN RECORD

The scrawny Quaker has now held the crown longer than any requester in the game's history, with the exception of R. D. Sears, who sported the laurel wreath from 1881 to 1887, or seven successive seasons.

True, he found the going somewhat rough and rocky last summer when his old rival, Johnston, as well as the two youthful French aces, Lacoste and Borotra had him all but whipped. But a characteristic Tilden rally carried him through.

Tilden is known as a terribly slow starter. To others his early play smacks of indifference. Consequently, he usually gets away badly. But when he seems to play a stronger game when behind. Time and again he has pulled a seemingly lost cause out of the mire by a gallant stand in the ebbing moments of play. And no matter what the odds against him, has always been capable of overcoming them.

MINOR BALL PLAYERS MEET AT ASHEVILLE

From Avalon, Santa Catalina Island, Calif., to Asheville, N. C., is something of a big jump. But minor league baseball managers have decided to make it and Asheville will be the meeting place for the 25th anniversary session of the National Association.

President Dan Hill of the Asheville club in the South Atlantic League tried two years before landing the winter baseball gathering. Now that he has it he is working up a royal program of entertainment for next December.

Asheville is one of the few Class B league cities to land the big winter baseball convention.

BILLY EVANS Says

REMARKABLE FEAT
One remarkably pitched ball game often makes a pitcher in the majors. This is particularly true if it comes early in his career as it gives him the confidence that is usually the one asset most needed.

It is not often that one remarkably pitched ball game tends to handicap a twirler's career, yet many of the wise men of baseball are inclined to think that Charley Robertson, formerly of the Chicago White Sox, has been such a victim.

It so happened that I umpired the game that many of the experts believe injured rather than helped Robertson's career as a big leaguer.

It was a no-hit, no-run game, in which not a player reached first base. To make the feat all the more extraordinary, it was made at the expense of the Detroit club, the hardest hitting outfit in the American League.

Robertson pitched that great game in the spring of the year. Only a few weeks previous he had made his big league debut. Detroit had 10 men hit the 300 clubs that year, which will give some idea of the power of the club at the bat.

Throughout the game Robertson pitched like a veteran instead of a rookie. He merely laughed at the protests of the Detroit club that he was doctoring the ball.

SERIOUS HANDICAP
That one game made me feel pretty well satisfied that Mr. Robertson was going to be quite some pitcher. He showed me everything in the line of speed and curves and had plenty of power.

Four years have elapsed since that extraordinary game. At times Robertson has given signs of reaching stardom but on the whole he has been a bit of an m-m-outter, good when good and bad when bad.

An extraordinary sport feat is always the subject for much "ballyhoo." Robertson came in for much publicity as a result of his no-hit feat. A majority of the baseball experts believe that particular game proved a detriment to his career.

Unquestionably Robertson has at first been conscious of the fact that he once blanked the hard-hitting Detroit club without a hit and not allowing a runner to reach first. He has strived to live up to it.

It has been a mental battle, he has constantly let him. As a result he is pressing more often than pitching natural.

MARKETS SEEK HIGHER LEVELS

Orderly Upward Movement Embraces Representative Industrials

New York—(AP)—Responding to favorable merger and earnings reports, stock prices continued to seek higher levels at the opening of Wednesday market, which was featured by a further rise in American Can to a new record at 305. Western Oil shares, including California Petroleum union of California and Pacific moved up vigorously and gained two points or more as were recorded by Allied Chemical, General Electric and Moto-Meter.

A Ford stock continued under pressure, Ward B dropping 3 points to 62. An orderly upward movement in the early dealings embraced many representative industrials in addition to various public utility issues, particularly those influenced by progress in the development of water-power projects.

General Electric extended its gain to almost eight points, crossing 352, on report of a split up of the stock and a new dividend. California Packing recovered two points, and Continental Can followed the initial upturn in American Can. Included in a long list of one to two points advances were Mack Trucks, Foundation Company, Montana Power, Moon Motors, and Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron. Trading in the railroad group was featured by a spurt of almost five points in Delaware and Hudson in anticipation of early action on the dividend, recently deferred.

Foreign exchanges were slightly easier, with demand sterling opening at $4.86.

When the market began to waver under a fresh bear assault against the food and several other specialties, constructive efforts were redoubled in other portions of the list. American Can was rushed up 7 1/2 to 311 1/2, in further reflection of the extraordinarily favorable annual earnings and general electric climbed 10 1/2 to 352 1/2; the rally was aided by a decline in call money rates to 5 per cent after renewals had been made at 5 1/2.

Ward Baking B. was driven down six points to 59. Postum covered 3 1/2 to 105, Coca Cola, 4 1/2 to 104 1/2, and S. P. American snuff 3 1/2 to 11 1/2.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximated 2,000,000 shares.
